DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The rowhouse is two bays wide and two stories high. The foundation wall and the lower half of the first story building wall are painted stone. The upper half of the first story building wall and the second story building wall are laid in running bond brick. Fenestration is symmetrical throughout the building wall and the roof is flat. A covered wood porch projects from the first story facade. The porch's elements include two full and two half square columns as well as identically organized front and side railings. These are fitted with simple square balusters. A flat, double light casement window with a stone sill punctuates the foundation wall. To the right of the window, four stone steps lead to the porch. A flat wood door with a single light punctuates the right side of the first story facade wall. The door is surmounted by a flat single light transom and a half arched brick lintel which is partially obscured by the porch fittings. A flat wood screen door accompanies the single light door. To the left, this facade wall is punctuated by a flat window double hung with one over one lights. The window is accompanied by a half arched brick lintel.

The second story facade is punctuated by two flat windows double hung with one over one lights and accompanied by flat stone lintels. A simple painted wood cornice with brackets caps the building wall.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This building was constructed later than its neighboring structures. Most of the residential buildings in the area are pre-1900 (except for the recent public housing projects). The size, proportions and styling contrasts sharply with Upton's nineteenth century appearance.
